THOUSANDS SEE INAUGURAL PROCEEDINGS

Nation's Heads Well Guarded

Banking Crisis Will Result In Early Call For New Congress

"NEW DEAL" NOW READY TO START

By GEORGE R. HOLMES International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—Under the shadow of a national emergency as grave as any in the country, Franklin D. Roosevelt prepared today to assume the presidency of the United States.

The national capital, which has witnessed many inaugurations, was in gala attire for the unrolling drama of a change in administrations.

Thousands of visitors thronged the city, flags fluttered in the stiff March breeze, bands blared through the streets, and permeating the atmosphere of gaiety was a somber note of gravity occasioned by the nation-wide extent of the bank suspension.

To Call Congress Almost simultaneously with his induction into the highest office of the land, the new president was expected to call Congress into special session to deal with the emergency. It probably will assemble next week, enact emergency legislation imposing vast powers on the new president and then recess until the apostles of "the new deal" can formulate their program for national rehabilitation.

The swift drama of the transfer of power began unrolling shortly before 11 o'clock when the president-elect left his hotel for the short journey to the White House, where he joined with the outgoing executive for their memorable ride to the capital.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to guard both the troubled times and the fact that an attempt was made to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt in Florida a few weeks ago resulted in the capital being flooded with police, detectives, and secret service operatives. They mingled with the crowds of Pennsylvania avenue, alert for every indication of trouble. The uniformed police of the capital faced the crowds that lined the avenue, their backs to the center of the broad street.

Thousands On Avenue Pennsylvania avenue was a lane of people. On both sides of the street, from the White House to the capitol hill, thousands were banded in the temporary stands erected to accommodate those who wanted to view the parade. Thousands of others perched on the curb-stones and crowded the windows of buildings.

This was to have been the gayest and most colorful inaugural in years and nothing was left undone in the arrangements to make it so. Parade units from all parts of the country were in Washington today, and not even the worry over the banking situation could dispel the enthusiasm with which they entered upon the business of the day. That business was to solemnize the change from the old to the new—carrying with it the hopes of millions of people for better times.

President-elect Roosevelt arrived at the White House at 10:50 a. m. with Mrs. Roosevelt and the members of their immediate families.

After brief formalities the cortege proceeded from the White House toward the capitol at 10:57. President-elect Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover occupied the first car.

In the second were Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hoover. The White House military and naval aides occupied the third car. The Hoover secretaries rode in the fourth car.

The crowds along the avenue gave the incoming and outgoing executives a tremendous ovation as they passed up the avenue.

They entered the capitol grounds at 11:11 a. m.

situation, and the congress that is to come into power with him stands ready to grant him more extraordinary powers than any peace-time president in history. This refers not only to the banking situation, but to sweeping power to reorganize the government in the interests of economy as well.

Special Call Near

Democratic members of congress were warned by the leaders not to attempt to go home after today's inaugural festivities, but to remain in the capital subject to hasty assembly under emergency conditions.

Late yesterday, a momentous and significant conference was held between President Hoover and the president-elect, in the historic red room of the White House. Present were the outgoing Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, the continuing governor of the federal reserve board, Eugene Meyer, and Prof. Raymond Moley, who advised the incoming chief executive to be recognized by his appointment to an administrative position in the state department.

Only a brief communique was issued after this unprecedented conference, and it critically stated that "Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover took up a number of matters, all of which have to be taken up by the new administration." Nothing in which disguised the fact that the critical banking situation was almost alone discussed.

To Celebrate.

But, notwithstanding the gravity of the situation, the hosts of Democracy were prepared to celebrate in old time fashion today the triumph they won last November.

Governors of more than a score of states, with their aides and staffs, were numbered among the 150,000 visitors who thronged the capital for the inaugural ceremonies. A roster of the national capital today would read like a "who's who" in Democracy.

The formal induction into office of Mr. Roosevelt shortly after noon will be followed by a parade such as the national capital has not witnessed for these many years. Crack marching outfits from many states will be in the parade, and they will trek down historic Pennsylvania avenue behind the president-elect today to the exultant tunes of scores of bands.

At the hour of Mr. Roosevelt's triumph, President Hoover will quietly slip away from the capital where he has spent a busy twelve years, the last four of which have been filled with more grief than comes to the ordinary occupant of the White House.

Today's program followed time-honored precedent. At 11 a. m., the president-elect will leave his hotel and repair with Mrs. Roosevelt to the White House. Together, the incoming and outgoing presidents will traverse the old avenue together, amid lanes of people. They will witness together the swearing in of the new vice-president, "Jack" Garner of Texas, and the new senate. Then, accompanied by the president-elect, the new congress, the members of the cabinet, and what the old history books referred to as "sundry citizens" they will repair to the specially constructed stands in the east plaza of the capitol where the oath of office will be administered to the incoming president by the chief justice.

Thereafter, Mr. Roosevelt will deliver his brief inaugural address, Mr. Hoover will take his quiet departure, and Democracy's valiant hosts will begin twelve hours of celebration.

And "the new deal," for which the nation voted 20,000,000 strong last November, will be started.

communicate by long distance with the attorney general. He finally had to leave for the inauguration ceremonies at the capitol without being able to get in touch with the attorney general. Pending a talk with the latter, the governor declined to make any statement.

Obedy Order

Pittsburgh, Mar. 4.—The Federal Reserve Bank of the Cleveland-Pittsburgh branch closed here today following the mandatory bank holiday edict of Governor Gifford Pinchot. The bank will remain closed until Tuesday, the duration of the holiday.

In making the announcement, the branch officials said that the headquarters institution in Cleveland, O., will remain open unless a mandatory bank holiday proclamation is declared by Governor George White of Ohio.

Both the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh stock exchanges were closed for the duration of the bank holiday.

side. It spread rapidly, and neighbors who were attracted to the scene were unable to save any of the contents. The house had just recently been remodeled and in addition, the furniture was all new, Mr. Moore stated.

The flames did not spread to the barn, which is located across the road from the house. After the fire had died down, the New Wilmington fire truck went to the scene of the blaze and pumped water on the red hot embers to keep the sparks from being blown over the countryside.

The house was an eight-room frame structure, and while it had been built years ago, had only recently been remodeled and modernized.

attended any inauguration—certainly not in recent years. People were perched in trees, on the capitol roof and under the very dome itself.

There was a ripple of applause as the wives of the incoming and outgoing presidents took their seats on the platform, already crowded with notable new cabinet members, the black robed justices of the supreme court of the U. S., senators, representatives and their wives.

Mrs. Hoover stood on the left of the platform facing the crowd. She was chatting and laughing with Charles Curtis, who only a few minutes before passed out of public life. Perhaps she was relieved that she, too, was about to retire from the public eye. Certainly her demeanor was that of one carefree and happy.

On the right of the platform was Mrs. Roosevelt, attired in the gown that has introduced a new color "Eleanor Blue." Mrs. Hoover wore brown. She chatted with Vice President Garner and exchanged greetings with acquaintances.

Hoover Precedes. President Hoover preceded Mr. Roosevelt to the platform. There was scattered cheering as the crowd caught a glimpse of him.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes was already awaiting him, his head incased in a black skull cap.

Behind the president came Mr. Roosevelt, leaning on the arm of his eldest son, James.

There was a flourish of trumpets and the Marine band broke into "Hail To The Chief."

Roar From Crowd. A tremendous roar went up from the crowd as the first glimpse of the new president.

There was a slight pause as the new president reached the rostrum while radio announcers informed the world of what was about to take place.

Chief Justice Hughes removed his skull cap. He held in his hand the heavy old Dutch family Bible that has been in the Roosevelt family for three hundred years.

Clearly and sharply the voice of the chief justice intoned the constitutional oath and just as clearly and sharply Mr. Roosevelt repeated it after him. He became the 31st president of the United States at 1:07 p. m.

As he turned and faced the great crowd, his face was grim and set. The famous Roosevelt smile was entirely missing. Without loss of time he plunged immediately into his speech, addressing himself to "President Hoover, the chief justice and my friends."

His voice was firm and clear. Through the amplifiers his words were carried to the outer fringes of the great crowd.

The new president finished speaking at 1:26. Although his speech was one of the shortest inaugurals on record, he spoke so slowly and with such deliberation and emphasis it took him 18 minutes instead of the 12 he had allotted himself.

As he finished, a number of his friends, senators and cabinet members, crowded to the rostrum with congratulations.

He shook hands first with President Hoover.

After this interval of handshaking, the Marine guards cleared a pathway for him, and again leaning on the arm of his tall son "Jimmy," he slowly disappeared from the view of the crowd below.

They waited until he entered his automobile, and then slowly melted away.

Another quadrennial American drama had been completed.

As the hour drew near for the transfer of power on the plaza, the crowd increased constantly and at 11:40 it was estimated that there were 100,000 people thronged in a wide semi-circle in front of the platform. They stood patiently in the chill March breeze, or huddled in coats on the bare pine benches that formed the platform.

The Marine band, resplendent in their scarlet tunics and bright blue trousers, relieved the monotony of their wait with patriotic airs.

WE CHANGE PILOTS

OUR Ship of State changes pilots today. After four years of sailing through stormy seas, Herbert Clark Hoover leaves the bridge and Franklin Delano Roosevelt takes the helm. It is more than a mere change of administration, more than a shifting of political policies in the national capitol, it marks the beginning of a new attempt to lead the United States out of the shoals of economic distress.

Mr. Hoover leaves the presidency after four years of service that were fraught with almost weekly crises. What he tried to do as president cannot be judged at this close range. Only time will reveal whether or not his policies were sound, whether his theories could have been worked out, for certainly he could not be expected to work miracles when all about him was unprecedented economic tragedy.

Nor can President Roosevelt be expected to work miracles. Whatever our politics were in November 1932 we must face the fact that he will be president for four years, barring the unforeseen. As president he deserves and should receive the co-operation of every citizen who loves his country. He now discards his political tag for the office of president. As long as he honestly strives to advance his country's interests, as long as he puts principle above party, just so long should every American strive to co-operate with him.

President Roosevelt ascends to power at a time when the office of president is engulfed in the long black shadows of the problems he must face. Unemployment, World War debts, world peace, the tariff, the bonus, farm relief, rehabilitation of industry and transportation, these and a thousand other problems await him in that office on Capitol Hill.

They challenge the best that the president and his advisers can give. They will require courage, vision and unflagging industry if they are to be solved. To these tasks Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the American, not Roosevelt the Democrat, must lend himself, and in these endeavors the people of these United States are hopefully back of him.

NOT AN IMPORTANT PRECEDENT

Some one has pointed out to the New York Times that when Chief Justice Hughes administered the oath of office to President Roosevelt it was the first time that a former governor of a state has performed this function for another former governor of the same state. It is not an important precedent, and it will quite probably never be repeated. The arm of coincidence is not always long.

Nor is there any great significance in the fact that two Roosevelts are numbered among the occupants of the white house after two Adamsons and two Harrisons. A more memorable circumstance is that William Howard Taft was the only man to be both president and chief justice. That too may turn out to be an isolated instance.

SHORT-LIVED IDOLS

Countless books have been written and reams of advice dispensed on how to achieve success. It is odd that so little is said about what is really far more important, namely, how to hold success once you have won it.

This is really a vital question in America where the avenues to fame are broad and numerous, but where public applause is being constantly transferred from one subject to another. Many people get their names on the front page once, but so few of them keep it there.

The man who makes a million today may with the same facility and a corresponding turn of luck become a pauper tomorrow. The man who is chosen president of a company for a particular piece of work must continue to produce every day if he is to hold his job. The author whose novel joins the best sellers must keep on writing best sellers to keep his name in the literary limelight.

Not infrequently individuals mistake appearances of success for success itself. The public must have its idols and nobody knows this better than the publicity man. And no sooner has the publicity man created one idol than he discards it to begin the creation of a new one.

So long as the American public is fickle, so long as its taste demands variety in the place of long-established quality and so long as the machinery for turning out idols is superior to the material at hand, success for most people is likely to be short and sweet. When popular worship forsakes a channel swimmer for a trans-oceanic flier the action is more eloquent than words.

TWENTY MILLION DIDN'T VOTE

Almost as many potential voters failed to go to the polls on November 8 as the number of ballots cast for the various candidates. If President Hoover had received, instead of some 15 million votes, the votes of the lazy, indifferent, civic slackers, he would have given Mr. Roosevelt a tight race.

Right there is where the rule of the people shows one of its greatest weaknesses. From one-third to two-thirds of our citizens stay away from primary and general elections. People who think that an election will not in any way affect their personal fortunes are liable to come down with this civic sleeping-sickness.

The person who makes a rule of never missing a primary or general election, except by reason of serious illness or other vital cause, counts in the government of his precinct, his city, his county, his state, and his nation. He may vote by conscience, or because he is in a political faction, but in either case he is of some use in fathering events, he is not a civic enigma.

The people of this country have had a horrible example of what happens when we look to congress for help in distress. The various factions take presidential suggestions, or the ideas of specialists, and tear them to pieces or partisans for the cliques they think have elected them. To the extent that public officials are put into office by the stay-at-home voter, we get what we deserve. With self-interested minorities so powerful in the selection of officials, it is only natural that many officeholders should have self-centered notions of public service.

Government aid: Giving part of it back.

Of course war isn't necessary. The nations have learned how to break one another in time of peace.

The ladies may act mannish and get away with it, but a man wouldn't last long if he acted that way.

OUR GRAB BAG
Life's a grab bag, and in all manner of things, surprise treasures may be found.

Into its great confusion you thrust a seeking hand and draw forth wonders. You find anger, fear, jealousy, peace, love, triumph and hunger.

Here's creeping envy and upright courage, dear delight and stalwart duty.

Here's the disaster with a double face, and scowling revenge, and clutching aviance. Here are all things. Tenderness, joy, worry and agony. Grief, glory, wit and charm. Ugliness, hunger, awe and boredom. Jealousy, gratitude, irony and illusion. Cruelty, desire, defiance and caprice. Vagary, splendor, generosity and conceit. Contempt, despair, gloom and betrayal.

Here, too, are toil and rewards, boredom and thirst, patience and envy. Here are hope and faith, understanding and homeliness, love and friendship. And terror and truth, pity and regret, lust and sweetness.

Here are logic, madness, luck, loyalty, laughter, meanness, melody, obedience, sleep, confidence, oblivion, dreams, suspicion, ferment, scars, fertility, weariness, warmth, restlessness, worry, achievement, longing and challenge.

These are not words. These are our sticks and stones. These are the materials of our building. Out of these little bits, patiently, stumbling and falling and getting up again, we build our dream of what a life might be into something that we and other people may see and judge. Thus we show forth our character to the world and no man is poor who has these at his command.

GOLF AND HELPFULNESS

Golf caddies are a bit worried over reports that not so many men will be playing golf as formerly participated in the game and that fees for service will be reduced.

If the fees are cut, the sum per hour will still be good pay for a boy in these times.

Players, however, should not become unnecessarily penurious. The amounts which they pay the lads who tote their bags may be sorely needed by the families of these boys.

Golf players, in this way, can do a part of "their bit" by trying to be at least fair to the lads.

They should look upon it as an obligation which they owe the boys and their families.

Some club members have decided to reduce pleasure trips, not going out of town as often as formerly, so they can play golf at home more often and help out the caddies while enjoying the game.

They are not being exactly unselfish in this because they love the game, but some men who will play next summer will get additional pleasure out of their games because they feel they will be doing something to help needy persons.

He is credited with enthusiastic support of policies leading to economy.

"The position of Budget Director is the key to our economic future," says the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, with the belief that "on the success of this office depends, in large measure, the success of the Roosevelt Administration." That paper recalls that in the House—Representative Douglas "was a member of the select committee on economy, creation of which he proposed." Remembering that he was "cited for bravery by Gen. Pershing in the Argonne and decorated by the Belgian government," The World-News concludes that "apparently he will need all the courage that won him wartime decorations in the position to which he has been called." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR holds that "with Mr. Douglas as Director, there is a real possibility that Franklin Roosevelt will carry out his promise of cutting the budget."

With the assertion that he "looks like a promising leader for the program of retrenchment to which the incoming Administration stands pledged," the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD comments: "It is significant to note, as is true along so many other lines, that he has been for weeks working on his task in advance of his taking office. Mr. Roosevelt, indeed, has had a multitude of skilled and competent leaders at work on many domestic problems and on foreign problems, long in advance of the change in government. He has been diligently at work himself. There has been hardly a single avenue of approach to recovery left unexplored."

Mr. Roosevelt said when he announced the appointment "states the BOSTON HERALD," "the directorship is on the same plane as a Cabinet chair and will have more weight than ever in the next four years." The Herald adds that "Mr. Douglas will be at the heart of the most conspicuous of all the Roosevelt appointments. Of the opinion that 'the fact that Roosevelt turns to Douglas to make the fight for a lower budget is its own indication that he means business in his promise to reduce government costs.'"

The AKRON BEACON JOURNAL suggests that "with the larger authority Congress has given the President to overhaul and reorganize Federal bureaus, there should be no further obstruction to the slashing of costs." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS holds that "the appointee is well qualified for his arduous undertaking," and that "probably it is easier for one man than for 531 men to act courageously—particularly if that one man be not afraid of his job."

"He will make his mark in the Roosevelt Administration," thinks the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, while the SCRANTON TIMES calls the position "one of the most important of the new Administration." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS sees it as "of the first magnitude," and refers to the appointee as one who "has saturated himself with the meaning and methods of government and has carried into public life, undiminished the courage which won him citizenship in the field of battle." The Evening News concludes that "the President will make no selection of an aid better calculated to serve the nation's need, or more likely to advance the success of his administration."

The courage of Mr. Douglas is lauded also by the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN, which says BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, observing that "he is steadfastly on record for a balanced budget, believing that any other eventually will impair the credit of the government," adds that "his appointment will aid the creation of confidence in the new Administration." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is convinced that he "possesses the intellectual, moral and practical qualifications which the position requires," and the ROANOKE TIMES avers that "taking him at his colleagues' valuation, he bids fair to measure up to one of the most difficult jobs."

His selection places one more representative leader of the mountain West in an important post," says the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, while the MORGANTOWN DEMOCRAT NEWS pays a tribute to "the growth in stature and increase in public importance of the coming Director of the Budget." The BALTIMORE EVENING SUN calls it "an admirable selection," while the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION views the job as "even more important than some of the Cabinet posts," and the HARTFORD TIMES attests to his prominence in struggles for economy.

His dominant position is emphasized by the ATLANTA JOURNAL with the statement: "Few heads of the incoming Democratic administration will have a more unenviable task than Lewis William Douglas. As Director of the Budget he must suggest and shape plans to fulfill the party's pledge of a reduction of at least twenty-five per cent in the cost of federal government. Being neither a magician nor the son of a prophet, Mr. Douglas is likely to have difficulties, his record reveals him as a courageous soldier, an efficient teacher and an up-and-doing Congressman, all of which attainments will stand him in good stead."

"His record," according to the NEW YORK SUN, "not only in the war on waste but in his particular struggle against the Boulder Canyon scheme, is so fine as to justify high hopes of his accomplishment as Director of the Budget. The only regret is that the House should lose a Representative so sensible and brave."

A reporter interviewed him recently and the following dialogue took place:
Interviewer: What do you do sir, when you get nervous?
Hindenburg: I whistle.
Interviewer: But I never heard you whistle.
Hindenburg: Neither did I.

THE PROUD PHEASANT
Sometimes a pheasant comes to call And brings his plain-garbed hens to see My lattice fence where roses sprawl And my two clumps of shrubbery.

He struts about my garden plot Arrayed in all his plumage gay And notices, as like as not, The bare spots where the youngsters play.

I watch this proud and gorgeous bird Follied by females drab and plain, And wonder if they think absurd A husband who can be so vain.

Do they such splendid garb admire And think him marvelous to see, Or do they of his boasting tire, As our wise time of you and me? (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

Your Income Tax In A Nutshell
NO. 29
Deduction for Losses Other Than from Sale or Exchange of Stocks and Bonds
Deductions for losses are divided into three classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income tax laws. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business, or profession; (2) in any transaction entered into for profit; or (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualties, or by theft.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition, the loss is deductible. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible, as it falls in class 3. If, because of faulty driving but not of "willful negligence," an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged, the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained, as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent by which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Douglas As Budget Director
Placed High In Government

Record Of Courage In Public Matters Attracts Attention
To Man Who Will Have Important Duties
Under New President

Appointment of Representative Lewis W. Douglas of Arizona as Director of the Budget under the incoming Administration is considered evidence that President Roosevelt intends to fulfill his promises to cut the cost of government. Mr. Douglas, although not in the Cabinet, attracts attention because of the importance of his work and his record of courage in war and peace. He is credited with enthusiastic support of policies leading to economy.

"The position of Budget Director is the key to our economic future," says the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, with the belief that "on the success of this office depends, in large measure, the success of the Roosevelt Administration." The affair got under way at 6:30 o'clock with the serving of a cream-chicken and hot biscuit dinner with all the trimmings by the ladies of the auxiliary. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. R. Mrs. R. S. Muder presided at the auxiliary meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. C. J. Bernhart. Four new members were received into the auxiliary. During the meeting, William Mulcahy, president of the Veterans Association, presented the auxiliary with a birthday cake in honor of its first anniversary, which occurred last evening.

After the meeting it was cut and served with coffee. It was also arranged that a considerable group of the members of both organizations go to Youngstown Tuesday, March 7, when they will be the guests of the Youngstown Auxiliary.

Fee Claims His Property Damaged

Says If Destruction Keeps Up
Wont Need To Repair It

John Fee, owner of property at 1112 Dewey Avenue, on Friday appeared before city council which met in city hall and alleged the property, alleged to be a public nuisance and a menace to safety was put in its condition by boys in the neighborhood. Council decided to view the property March 24. Mr. Fee told council he would accompany them.

Fee addressed council following their action in designating the date for the view. Asked if he were the owner, he replied he was and said that "it appears as though some people have a pick at this property. They want the lot for gardening which I have given for nothing."

He alleged boys had caused destruction there, been arrested, made good the damage and then the property again had been damaged.

Fee said he had no money for the repair of the property. He declared he had paid the taxes on the property and added "if I do not get some protection for it, I won't need do anything."

"Our purpose is to view it, not to tear it down," Councilman Davies said to Mr. Fee who told councilmen he would accompany them to the district and they could ask people who resided in the section as to how the property came to be in its present condition.

J. W. OFFUTT HEADS TAX LEAGUE HERE

Local People Hold Organization Meeting At Lincoln School Last Night

Splendid Addresses Given By Sen. Geo. T. Wein-gartner and Attorney Akens

ELWOOD CITY, Mar. 4.—The district of Elwood City is now organized to aid fair and just levies of taxes in the future. This was made possible by the organization meeting of the Tax Payers League of Elwood City and vicinity in the Lincoln auditorium last evening.

About 200 interested citizens attended and took part in the program for the evening.

Attorney R. B. Luke, acting as temporary chairman opened the meeting and congratulated those present for their interest in this event. He pointed out that it was the duty of every honest citizen to study their government, become familiar with it, understand it, and know the cost of its operation. This will be the primary purpose of the league.

Mr. Luke then threw the meeting open for nominations for the various offices. J. W. Offutt and C. H. Blank were the candidates for president and B. H. West and George B. Wilson for secretary-treasurer. Mr. Offutt was elected president of the organization and Mr. West secretary-treasurer. The remainder of the officers are as follows: first vice-president, R. B. Curry; second vice-president, T. C. Marshall; third vice-president, Harry Caplan; assistant secretary-treasurer, C. F. McClaren.

One of the principal speakers of the evening was former Sen. George T. Wein-gartner of New Castle who related some of his interesting experiences as a public official for 21 years, to the gathering last night. He urged the gathering not to make this a fault finding organization but work, cooperate, and think from a reasonable and sane standpoint. He urged that the citizens be fair with public officials, and make this a tax paying organization and not some other things as well.

Attorney C. H. Akens of New Castle was the next speaker on the evening's program. He explained how the various tax payers leagues all over the country function.

President J. W. Offutt then took the floor and in behalf of the league heartily thanked the speakers for their enlightening address. He stated that there was much work to be accomplished by the league and that they would go into serious business at their next meeting which will be announced at a later date.

Joseph Pishonieri Succumbs To Two Bullet Wounds At 6:05 This Morning

County Coroner And Police Press Efforts To find Attacker

ELWOOD CITY, Mar. 4.—Joseph Pishonieri, aged 49, rear Glenn avenue, victim of a mysterious shooting about two weeks ago succumbed to his wounds made by two bullets about 6:05 this morning at the Elwood City Hospital.

Pishonieri was mysteriously shot by a man in a car believed to be near the Circle School. At the present the police are under the impression that the incident occurred on Franklin avenue between Third and Fourth streets.

Inflection set in about the two bullet wounds and caused the death of the man, physicians state. He had been low for the last two days and could scarcely speak. His family has been at the bed side for most of the time.

No new light has been thrown on this cold blooded murder. Pishonieri died without giving a hint as to who his assailant or assailants were. County Coroner Orville Potter, County Detective H. M. Lee, State Policeman Paul Engle, and Chief of Elwood City Police, W. C. Morrison went into the case with new vigor today. Coroner Potter plans to conduct an inquest into the murder the latter part of next week in an effort to throw some light on the sordid affair.

NEW PRESIDENT PROMISES QUICK ACTION IN NATION

eminently the time to speak the truth, the whole truth, frankly and boldly. Nor need we shrink from honestly facing conditions in our country today.

Nation Will Endure
"This great nation will endure as it has endured, will revive and will prosper. So first of all let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes needed efforts to convert retreat into advance. In every dark hour of our national life a leadership of frankness and vigor has met with that understanding and support of the people themselves which is essential to victory. I am convinced that you will again give that support to leadership in these critical days.

Only Material Losses
"In such a spirit on my part and on yours we face our common difficulties. They concern, thank God, only material things. Values have shrunk to fantastic levels; taxes have risen; our ability to pay has fallen; government of all kinds is faced by serious curtailment of income; the means of exchange are frozen in the currents of trade; the withered and impoverished state of the nation makes the burden of governmental obligations unpayable. Faced by the stark reality of the situation, farmers find no markets for their produce; the savings of many years in thousands of families are gone.

"More important, a host of unemployed citizens face the grim problem of existence, and an equally great number toil with little return. Only a foolish optimist can deny the dark realities of the moment.

Much To Be Thankful For
"Yet our distress comes from no failure of substance. We are stricken by no plague of locusts. Compared with the perils which our forefathers conquered because they believed and were not afraid, we have still many a victory to be won. We must move as trained and loyal army willing to sacrifice for the good of a common discipline, because without such discipline no progress is made, no leadership becomes effective.

Ready For Discipline
We are, I know, ready and willing to submit our lives and property to such discipline because it makes possible a leadership which aims at a larger good. This I propose to offer, pledging that the larger purposes will bind upon us all as a sacred obligation with a unity of duty hitherto evoked only in time of armed strife.

Assume Leadership
"With this pledge taken, I assume unhesitatingly the leadership of this great army of our people dedicated to a disciplined attack upon our common problems.

"Action in this image and to this end is feasible under the form of government which we have inherited from our ancestors. Our constitution is so simple and practical that it is possible always to meet extraordinary needs by changes in emphasis and arrangement without loss of essential form. That is why our constitutional system has proved itself the most superbly enduring political structure in our history. It has met every stress of vast expansion of territory, of foreign wars, of bitter internal strife of world relations.

May Call For Departure
"It is to be hoped that the normal balance of executive and legislative authority may be wholly adequate to meet the unprecedented task before us. But it may be that an unprecedented demand and need for undelayed action may call for temporary departure from that normal balance of public procedure.

Seek Speedy Adoption
"I am prepared under by constitutional duty to recommend the measures that a stricken nation in the midst of a stricken world may require. These measures, or such other measures as the congress may build out of its experience and wisdom, I shall seek, within my constitutional authority, to bring to speedy adoption.

"But in the event that the congress shall fail to take one of these two courses, and in the event that the national emergency is still critical, I shall not evade the clear course of duty that will then confront me. I shall ask the congress for the one remaining instrument to meet the crisis—broad executive power to wage a war against the emergency, as great as the power that would be given to me if we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe.

Face Arduous Days
For that trust reposed in me I will return the courage and the devotion that befit the time. I can do no less. We face the arduous tasks that lie before us in the warm courage of national unity; with the clear consciousness of seeking old and precious moral values; with the clean satisfaction that comes from the stern performance of duty by old and young alike. We aim at the assurance of a rounded and permanent national life.

Have Not Failed
"We do not distrust the future of essential democracy. The people of the United States have not failed. In their need they have registered a mandate that they want direct vigorous action. They have asked for discipline and direction under leadership. They have made me the present instrument of their wishes. In the spirit of the gift I take it.

"In this dedication of a nation we humbly ask the blessing of God. May he protect each and every one of us. May he guide me in the days to come."

Can Be Helped
"It can be helped by preventing realistically the tragedy of the growing loss through foreclosure, of our small homes and our farms. It can be helped by insistence that the federal state and local governments act forthwith on the demand that their cost be drastically reduced. It can be helped by the unifying of relief activities which today are often scattered, uneconomical and unequal. It can be helped by national planning for and supervision of all forms of transportation and of communications and other utilities which have a definitely public character. There are many ways in which it can be helped, but it can never be helped merely by talking about it. We must act and act quickly.

Need Sound Currency
"Finally, in our progress toward a resumption of work we require two safeguards against a return of the evils of the old order; there must be a strict supervision of all banking and credits and investments; there must be an end to speculation with other people's money, and there must be provision for an adequate but sound currency.

"These are the lines of attack. I shall presently urge upon a new congress in special session detailed measures for their fulfillment, and I shall seek the immediate assistance of the several states.

Emergency at Home Comes First
"Through this program of action we address ourselves to putting our own national house in order and making income balance our outgo. Our international trade relations though vastly important, are in point of time and necessity secondary to the establishment of a sound national economy. I favor as a practical policy the putting of first things first. I shall spare no effort to restore the world trade by international economic readjustment, but the emergency at home cannot wait on that accomplishment.

Way to Recovery
"The basic thought that guides these specific means of national recovery is not narrowly nationalistic. It is the insistence, as a first consideration, under the interdependence of the various elements in and parts of the United States—a recognition of the old and permanently important manifestation of the American spirit of the pioneer. It is the way to recovery. It is the immediate way. It is the strongest assurance that the recovery will endure.

Good Neighbor
"In the field of world policy I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor, the neighbor who respects himself and because he does so, respects the rights of others, the neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors.

"If I read the temper of our people correctly we now realize as we have never realized before our interdependence on each other; that we cannot merely take but we must give as well; that if we are to go forward we must move as trained and loyal army willing to sacrifice for the good of a common discipline, because without such discipline no progress is made, no leadership becomes effective.

Ready For Discipline
We are, I know, ready and willing to submit our lives and property to such discipline because it makes possible a leadership which aims at a larger good. This I propose to offer, pledging that the larger purposes will bind upon us all as a sacred obligation with a unity of duty hitherto evoked only in time of armed strife.

Relief Department Enforcing Rule Relative To Securing County Aid

Since the order was issued that no person driving an automobile will be furnished relief by the county, poor director M. B. Hogue has collected a number of license plates at his office. Those driving machines and asking for aid are required to leave their license plates at the relief office. If an emergency arises whereby the plates are needed, such as the owner getting work that would require the use of his car, the plates are returned. They will also be returned to persons who secure work and are taken off the relief list.

Yesterday a foreigner called at the office, and wanted an order for a sack of flour. After taking his statement as to the needs of the family the order was issued pending further investigation today as to its necessity. The man left, walked up the street, and was seen to get into an automobile and drive away. Today when he presented his order to get a requisition for the flour, Hogue immediately tore it up. The man turned and walked out without a word.

Curtis Leaves Capital Today

Vice-President Curtis Leaves Washington After Forty Years of Service

BECOMES PRIVATE CITIZEN AGAIN

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—"My turn was inevitable, of course, but I am thankful it was a long time in coming," Vice President Curtis declared today in his farewell speech, adjourning the Senate of the 72nd Congress. The vice president spoke feelingly of his regrets at passing from the Capitol, where he has served so long, first as a member of the House of Representatives, later as Senator and finally as vice president. His remarks, in part, follow:
"The major task confronting the new administration is to bring about the economic recovery of our people and of their affairs. Theirs is now the responsibility of leadership, but the problem is the concern of each and every one of us, whether retiring from office or entering office. I know the new administration will do everything in its power to bring about the desired result. I sincerely wish success to President-elect Roosevelt, to Vice President-elect Garner and to the Democratic majority in Congress.
"Need Cooperation
In a few minutes they are about to assume the leadership in the difficult task confronting the nation. The duties and responsibilities of their high offices are great. Our new leaders are entitled to and I am sure will receive the full cooperation of every one for the common good of all.
"To me personally this is one of the most important days of my life. It marks my leave-taking as your presiding officer, my leave taking as a member in the halls of Congress where I have been present as vice-president of the U. S., as Senator and as Congressman, for forty years. For four decades my life has been devoted to the task of aiding in the government of the United States. Two score years of my life have been spent in this building on which we are gathered. My work has been absorbing. It has firmed and held my best efforts for the public welfare. It is with deep emotion that I bid you good-bye and shortly go forth from here a private citizen."

Temperatures during February were nearer the normal mark than they have been for many months, the report of United States Weather Observer, B. F. Johnson shows.

The mean temperature for the month was only seven-tenths of a degree over the normal mean for February. There was a deficiency of more than an inch in precipitation, however.

The mean maximum for the month was 38.9 and the mean minimum, 19.3, the mean average for the month being 29.1 degree. The normal mean temperature for February is 28.4 degrees.

The highest temperature was 59 degrees on February 23 and the lowest was three below on February 10. The greatest daily range was 32 degrees on February 23.

Days with .01 inches or more of rainfall were 11, days clear, 6; days partly cloudy, 11; and days cloudy, 11. The precipitation was 1.20 inches and the greatest in 24 hours was .41 inches on February 25. The snowfall for the month was 2.8 inches.

Normal precipitation for February is 2.42 inches, the deficiency being 1.22 inches, identically the same as in February 1932. The snowfall in February last year was 3.5 inches. The temperature during February of 1932 was 5.9 degrees above normal. The maximum was 73 degrees on February 12 and the minimum was 14 degrees on February 1.

Want To Change Zone In Croton

Want To Place Marshall Property In Secondary Business District

Councilman D. O. Davies presented a bill during Friday's session of council, which, if adopted, will result in a change of zone districts in Croton avenue and vicinity. The bill was sent to committee and a date will be designated when the planning commission will hear the reasons why the change from a residential district to a secondary business district is desired. The section in which it is desired to have the change is bounded on the north by a road which runs to the east by McClellan avenue and on the south by Croton avenue. Most of the land is owned by Mrs. Kate Marshall, according to city officials. Some of the nearby property now is a secondary business district and it is desired to change that portion lying on Croton avenue, near the top of the hill, into the same kind of a district.

Order Grand Jury Probe In Mercer

Witnesses Called In Case Against Clerk Of County Courts

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Mar. 4.—Judge J. A. McLaughlin has just issued an order directing 15 witnesses to appear before the March grand jury convening March 6, in an investigation of the clerk of courts office of Mercer county of which Marvin Loutzenhiser is the clerk.

The petition was presented by Edwin C. Moon, a Mercer attorney and signed by six taxpayers asking the investigation.

The proposed investigation is the outgrowth of two accusations against Loutzenhiser in the last two weeks in which extortion is charged. The complainants are John R. McClain of Sharon and Harold Shaffer of Pardoe.

It is alleged by the complainants he sold them marriage licenses for $4 and with each marriage license was a bride's book. The legal price of a marriage license is $2.50.

The complainants allege they did not know they were buying the bride's book.

It is the contention of Loutzenhiser that the license and bride's book were sold separate and that this is the practice in western Pennsylvania counties.

Emergency Banking Measures Discussed

Senator Gore (D) of Oklahoma, a member of the Conservative group, planned to seek early action by the Senate banking and currency committee on his joint resolution for an iron-clad government guaranty against loss to depositors.

State banks would be able to avail themselves of this guaranty, under Gore's measure, by becoming associate members of the Federal Reserve system.

"The government cannot possibly guarantee bank deposit," declared Senator Walcott (R) of Connecticut, a member of the banking and currency committee. "It would require $44,000,000,000."

"The day Congress finally acted to guarantee bank deposits, federal bonds would fall in half and the country would go off the gold standard."

Similar objections were voiced by Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury. Glass suggested the currency stringency could be relieved temporarily by use of clearing house certificates to "freeze" large amounts of cash during the emergency.

Conflict Of Opinion Over Government Guaranty Of Deposits Plan

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—Sharp conflict over a federal guaranty of bank deposits swept through Congress today, with various Democratic leaders in the two houses proposing emergency banking relief plans which they hoped would meet with President Roosevelt's approval.

GERALD NEWTON IS HIGH SCORER

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Mar. 4.—Westminster College's band of towering Titan basketball players, upset the dope bucket here last night in rather handsome fashion by handing a strong St. John's College five a 25 to 15 setback. The boys from Westminster Pennsylvania played a snappy brand of basketball in every period. Gerald Newton was the high scorer of the game with 10 points.

Billy Douglass was good for the Titans with two field goals and a foul. Bennett and Hunneke each got four points. McGuiness was the best bet in the lineup of the St. Johns team. Slott also played a real game.

The Westminster team ended their Eastern invasion with the game last night and started homeward. The Titans on the present trip won four and lost one game.

Alec Samuels announced today that the Lawrence County Twilight League meeting will be held at the Sporting Goods Store on Monday night, March 6, at 7:30 o'clock instead of on the original date of March 13. This meeting will be for the purpose of getting the league business straightened out.

There are nine teams all ready to take out franchises. Three more fast teams are needed. The officials hope to make it two fast six-team leagues. The officials are desirous of having a couple of fast circuits this season. If 12 teams cannot be secured, then they will endeavor to make it a strong eight or nine-team league.

Any team can desire to enter the league can do so by having representatives at the meeting Monday night.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Al Espinosa suffered a seven foot putt on the eighteenth hole and took a 67 to tie with Willie McFarlane for the first day honors in the $5,000, Florida Year Round Club open on the Miami-Biltmore course at Miami.

Victor Sorrell, veteran Detroit pitcher, was taken to a hospital yesterday at San Antonio for an X-ray examination of injuries caused when a bat in the hands of Catcher Eugene Desautels struck him across the nose.

Mose Butch had no trouble scoring a victory on points over Vidal Gregorio in 10 rounds and Jimmy Thomas won a 10 round award over Jimmy Mack last night at Pittsburgh. Jackie Wilson floored and beat Ross Fields in another 10 rounder.

Miss Frances Williams defeated Frances Hadfield 3 to 1 and Miss Kathleen Garnham won from Barbara Pym 1 up in the Florida East Coast Women's golf meet at St. Augustine. The winners will meet in the finals today.

Rumors are current in Pittsburgh district college circles that Bob Waddell, who resigned as football coach at Carnegie Tech at the end of the 1932 season may succeed Howard Harpster at Geneva.

George Lott, Jr., and Clifford Sutter won from Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 in the final men's doubles of the Bermuda tennis championships at Hamilton.

A string of pointers owned by Robert F. Maloney of Pittsburgh made a clean sweep of their classes yesterday at the annual dog show held by the Detroit Kennel Club.

As League Champs Opened Spring Training

You can't expect the boys to be expert after the Winter layoff so the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League for 1932, open their Spring training with a larger ball than usual. Members of the Windy City team are shown at Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., undergoing a stiff workout with the medicine ball to get the hand and eye limbered up before they go to work on the genuine diamond "pill."

Basketeer's Floating Power

Like a graceful adagio dancer floating through space, Sparky Wade, basketball star of Atlanta, Ga., was caught by the camera in this unusual pose during a recent game at the Atlantic City Auditorium. The young basketeer plays what may be titled an "aerial game," as he is off the ground for a great deal of the time.

Three Church Games Tonight

Two Games In A League
And One In B Loop
At Y

SHARP FIGHT IN BOTH DIVISIONS

With a sharp deadlock existing in both A and B loops of the Church leagues, the windup of the current week's basketball will be staged at the Y tonight where three settees will be played.

The schedule will bring together First Baptist vs. Highland, and Wesley M. E. vs. Epworth M. E. in the A division and Highland U. P. vs. Sacred Hearts in the B division.

The meeting will be presided over by Ed King, president of the association. This organization is open to all men of Union Township who are interested in athletics. It is hoped that the membership will be enlarged by several hundred at the close of the 1933 year.

Eintracht At Cleveland Tonight

Eintracht plays Cleveland West at Cleveland tonight. Both teams are in the National Saxon league. Eintracht is in a tie for first place and is anxious to win from Cleveland West. Eintracht's last victory was over Grove City Collegians 20 to 19.

Waynesburg Tops
Geneva Team 35-34

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 4.—Waynesburg College's diligent Yellow Jacks today supplanted Westminster as runners-up to the Tri-State Conference champion Geneva College.

The Jacks wriggled their way into second place at Beaver Falls last night by nosing out Geneva, 35-34, in a bitterly fought game that was marked by scoring sprees.

Duquesne University made a clean sweep of its city series by drubbing Carnegie Tech. The Dukes thereby hung up their 13th straight win, despite a desperate last quarter effort by the Tartans to halt the city champions.

Ford City High Wins At Stadium

Ford City High basketball team defeated Cecil High last night at the Pitt Stadium 20 to 19, in a sizzling W. P. L. A. L. game in the annual tourney. The game was in doubt right down until the final minute of play. Ford City was the favorite, but ran into a tartar in Cecil High.

Tonight at the Stadium Rankin High winners of Section Eight will play Centerville winners of Section Sixteen. New Castle, Ambridge, Monessen, Duquesne and Ford City have survived second round games to date.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Hundred Fifty Attend
Gay Nineties Gathering

A "Gay Nineties Party", something new in festivities, was thrown by the Standard Bearer Society last night in the basement of the Mahoning Methodist church.

One hundred fifty Mahoningtown people entered into the spirit of the event—and if you wonder if they had a good time, just ask them. It was a party successful throughout and the smoothness in which it turned out surprised the Standard Bearers themselves.

The basement was well disguised as an old sitting room (it could have been anyone's sitting room sometime in the 1890's). The furnishings represented an aggregate collection of antiques from different seventh ward homes. And what a collection! Attracting great interest was the music box made in 1889, owned by Mrs. Frances Conner. Large copper records, 16 or 17 inches in width, were used on the machine. Then there was an old hand-made cradle over 50 years old, owned by the Clark Peterson family, and several chairs made at about the same period. Pictures decorated the walls and created great interest among the assembled people. Attention was glued all evening on that picture of Mrs. James Yates when 19 years of age.

The program was opened by "The Quilting Party" on the stage, with Justine Rankin dressed up in man's attire, wearing Miffian Tindall's wedding coat tailored 40 years ago, and with Myrtle Mae Conn posing as "Nellie".

Then followed readings by Isabelle Shaw, "School Days", sung by Genevieve Moss, Dorothy Druschel, Marjorie Gilmore and Minnie Tindall, two dressed in overalls and the other two in gingham dresses; and "Down by the Old Mill Stream", with motions, directed by Mrs. Virginia Yates McClurg, who was a comical sight in an old style dress with bustles. Mrs. McClurg received a lot of applause for her directing, by the way.

"The Curfew Must Not Ring Too Night", by Maxine Gillespie, and "The Old Oaken Bucket", by the chorus and enacted by Mildred

Tindall, Minnie Tindall, Marie McConnell and Justine Rankin, were both well received.

Ruth Stimple and Justine Rankin enacted and the chorus sang, "In the Good Old Summertime". Thelma Booher played six popular melodies of the 90's, and the audience guessed the names of them. Mrs. W. H. Mauermann guessed the most of them correctly and won the prize, a mustache cup. What she will use it for is something else again.

Dorothy Druschel gave a reading, "When Hully Speaks Her Beau". Two rounds were presented, directed by Mrs. Virginia McClurg. Ina Cooper read a letter from a political convention delegate who rented a room with a folding bed. A comical piece that received many a laugh.

The meeting closed with "Good Night Ladies", with Gay Anderson bidding "goodnight" to the crowd. She was dressed in an old-time nightgown, and had switch, curling iron and oil lamp.

Light for the basement was supplied from oil lamps, producing a genuine atmosphere. Selections were played between numbers on the music box. Mrs. John Davis presided over the kitchen and serving of refreshments. Mrs. Quinsey Day was the announcer of the program.

And what an odd looking baby carriage Dr. Clare Gilmore was raised in!

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Certainly isn't "all quiet along the Potomac" today. From the north, east, south and west, trains, planes and buses are disgorging folks in Washington, or should we say were by the time this gets to your family dinner table the new president will have punched the clock for the first time.

Among the crowd down from New Castle is John Dinsmore, who hasn't missed an inauguration since Grover Cleveland first said "I do." John takes his inaugurations in habit forming quantities and the name of the new president or the political label he bears has nothing to do with it. He sees 'em all.

For another New Castle chap this is his first offense. Frank Morelli, one of the newsmen you meet on Washington street if you there and if that pomp and circumstance doesn't give him a thrill then things aren't what they should be.

And that low roar you hear from the east is the army of the faithful presenting their claims for recognition. From the wind swept plains of Nebraska and the rockbound coast of Maine the boys and girls are there endeavoring to convince Jim Farley that if it hadn't been for them the entire election would have gone to pot.

Tsk, tsk, what a life this colyming is. Come out to work in the morning full of hope and hot cakes, with a smile on your face and a song on your lips and then socko come constant reader hits you about the bridge of the nose with what is intended to be a "nasty" wallop but usually turns out to be a laugh.

The latest contributor to the colym is "Mary Spalding" of R. 2, which is out Union Township way. Mary it seems was peevish at our treatment of the effort of the Poet Laureate of the Slippery Rock, and says she thinks his dollar day effusion was cute. But what she says about the engineer is "terrible." Not so excited Mary, remember your arteries.

And as usual, Mary "dares" us to print what she says, and says there were six of them there as the note was being scribbled. Probably herself and a package of five brothers. Call us some more names Mary, we love it.

As for the Poet Laureate of the Slippery Rock, the card has been turned over to him and he appreciates the compliment, implied as it is. Just for that he daubs in another one which doesn't sound a thing like Tennyson or John Massfield. Here we go.

When Homer twanged his blooming lute, or was his instrument a lute, he gave the folks an odyssey, and tipped the clouds with lyric fire, but Homer had the breaks at that, for this thing never happened him, he never got put on the spot by some one with a pseudonym.

You must come over Mary. Do let us hear from you again. And don't forget what George M. Cohan said in song, "for Mary is a grand old name."
